

TABLE OF CONTENTS

05.05.08

Volume 157, Number 9

82
BIG MAC,
SMALL
WORLD
↓

FORTUNE

FEATURES

40 Jim Collins on Enduring Greatness
Corporate stars rise and fall. Which will survive? In a Fortune 500 Series feature, a management expert makes the case for well-founded hope.

THE COMPANIES

48 Can Anyone Run Citigroup?
We know the banking giant is too big to fail. But is it also too big to manage? BY CAROL J. LOOMIS

62 The Hunt for Oil at the Top of the World
Can another Saudi Arabia be found under Arctic ice? BY BARNEY GIMBEL

70 Boeing's Big Dream
The innovative 787 is the fastest-selling new airliner in history. Fortune got an exclusive look at how it is made. PHOTOGRAPHS BY GREGG SEGAL, TEXT BY MICHAEL V. COPELAND

82 Big Mac's Local Flavor
McDonald's lets countries invent their own buns, bags, and business practices. BY PETER GUMBEL

8 EDITOR'S DESK
148 BING!

THE PEOPLE

90 The Lessons of Amazon.com's Jeff Bezos
Keep customers happy. Don't sweat the Street so much. And innovating? Forget it. BY JOSH QUITNER

98 The Siege of State Farm
Tort lawyer Dickie Scruggs mounted one of his trademark assaults on the insurer after Katrina. But his battle plan went wrong. BY ROGER PARLOFF

106 Why the Party's Over
When the credit crisis hit in 2007, everyone felt the pain. For the first time in five years, corporate profits dropped. BY GEOFF COLVIN

THE FORTUNE 500 LISTS
F-1 The 500 Largest U.S. Corporations
F-27 Arrivals and Departures
F-28 Notes
F-29 Footnotes
F-30 Index to the 500

FIRST
10 Growth Engines
GE's Infrastructure division produces 900 locomotives a year in this Erie, Pa., factory. BY TELIS DEMOS

12 Corporate Stakes in Cuba
American companies' pre-Castro claims. BY TELIS DEMOS

PLUS: Fortune 500 Logo Smackdown • The Three-Minute Manager • and more.