

FORTUNE

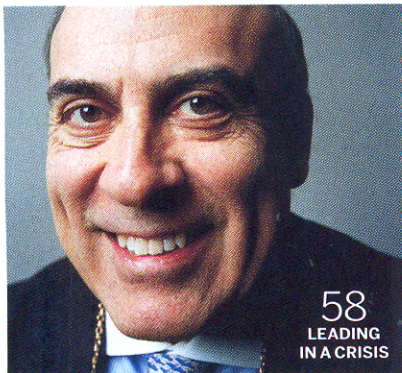

03.16.09

Volume 159, Number 5

50
HURD RULES

64
CHINA LOOKS
FOR WORK
→

58
LEADING IN A CRISIS

41
HIGH
FRYER

→
30
MOVE OVER,
GUTENBERG!

FEATURES

WORLD'S MOST ADMIRED COMPANIES

36 A Powerful Asset

In a season of global economic turmoil, admiration is in short supply. That's why a stellar reputation is more valuable than ever. BY GEOFF COLVIN

41 The 2009 List of Industry Stars

The top companies in 64 industries around the globe, judged by their peers.

50 Mark Hurd's Moment

He's obsessed with numbers and execution. In other words, the HP CEO is the guy you want running a company in a downturn. But is he a CEO for the ages? BY ADAM LASHINSKY

58 A View From the Top

Fortune asked five chief executives whose companies made this year's Most Admired all-star list how they're managing in the recession.

30 The End of Paper

Someday you may be reading your newspaper (or this magazine) on an e-paper device, a thin piece of plastic the size of a legal pad that can be taken to the beach or on the train. That day may be a lot closer than you think.

BY MICHAEL V. COPELAND

COVER STORY

64 China's Hard Landing

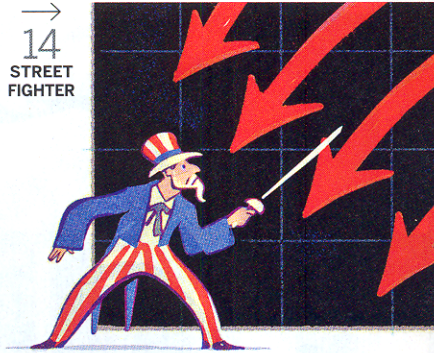

It is now obvious that China has no immunity from the vicious global slump. With exports shrinking and unemployment rising, China must find a way to recover. It will take longer than most think.

BY BILL POWELL

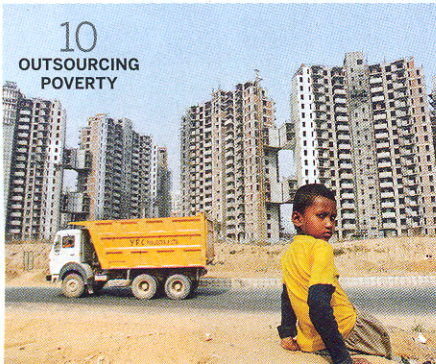

FORTUNE

Volume 159, Number 5

→
14
STREET FIGHTER

10
OUTSOURCING POVERTY

12
BUD
ON A BUDGET

24
SETTING A COURSE

FIRST

10 Slumdog Suburbia

Gurgaon, a planned urban center near Delhi, exploded as outsourcing boomed. But the government hasn't kept its promises to build and maintain infrastructure. BY JESSI HEMPEL

12 What Would Jesus Eat?

Prayer may be the poultry business's secret ingredient. BY TELIS DEMOS

12 Belt-Tightening at the House of Bud

InBev's cost-cutting culture kills the buzz at Anheuser-Busch. BY BETH KOWITT

14 The Deal

Don't confuse rhetoric with reform. BY ALLAN SLOAN

15 Temptation Island

In Antigua, Allen Stanford was just another shady expat. BY KATIE BENNER

15 Publishers Try Cashing In With Wall Street Tomes

The race is on to get out books about the meltdown. BY JIA LYNN YANG

16 Value Driven

Chris Dodd wants to scrap your bonus. BY GEOFF COLVIN

18 The Three-Minute Manager

How do I keep my company's reputation intact when our industry has been tainted by bad news? BY MINA KIMES

TECHNOLOGY

21 Cisco Aims to Serve

The networking titan thinks it can take on IBM, HP, and Dell selling servers. The ball is in CEO John Chambers' court. BY JON FORTT

23 Tech Rx for Health Care

One hospital hopes to save money (and lives) by spending $70 million over four years to digitize health records.

BY JULIA IOFFE

8 LETTERS 72 BING!

LIFE AT THE TOP

24 Tiger's Dream Course

Sure, he can master any course in the world. But can he design one? Tiger Woods takes us on a tour of his first U.S. project, the Cliffs near Asheville, N.C. BY JESSICA SHAMBORA

26 Another Round?

California's Mayacama features gorgeous greens and the best wine list on the planet, courtesy of its cult vintner members. BY JEFFREY M. O'BRIEN

28 Joy Ride

Driving a bargain. BY SUE ZESIGER CALLAWAY