

FORTUNE

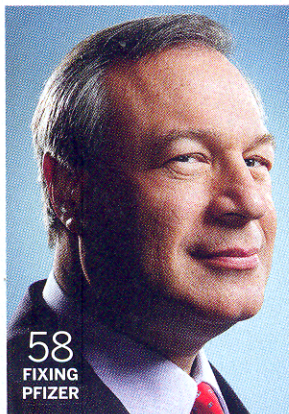

08.31.09

Volume 160, Number 3

62
BLACKBERRY NATION

81
PRIVATE CLUB

58
FIXING
PFIZER

→
34
WITH A BULLET

FEATURES

100 FASTEST-GROWING COMPANIES

62 BlackBerry vs. iPhone

Smartphone giant Research in Motion is cleaning up in the consumer market, expanding globally, and plotting to out-app the iPhone. BY JESSI HEMPEL

68 Inside the Trillionaires' Club

With over $3 trillion in assets, Larry Fink and his team at BlackRock are the world's largest money managers. Fink thinks he's just getting started. BY SHAWN TULLY

75 Defying the Downturn

Even amid the worst economic slump since the Great Depression, some companies just keep growing. For the first time, we've opened Fortune's 100 Fastest-Growing Companies list to businesses around the world.

34 China's Amazing New Bullet Train

This year Beijing will spend $50 billion on what will soon be the world's biggest high-speed train system. Here's how it works. BY BILL POWELL

42 My (Recovery) Playbook

When will the business climate improve? That's exactly the wrong question to be asking. Jeff Immelt, Andrea Jung, and other top CEOs are ditching the waiting game—and writing their own rules for a rebound. BY RAM CHARAN

48 The Medical Mafia

Prosecutors say a group of top Las Vegas lawyers and doctors conspired to collect millions in inflated damages by pushing accident victims into dubious surgery. BY KATHERINE EBAN

58 Pfizer's Home Remedy

CEO Jeff Kindler's plan to keep profits growing: Think small. A Fortune 500 Series feature. BY ALYSSA ABKOWITZ

81 Corner Office Confidential

Behind the doors of the Seraphic Society, the secretive club of assistants to high-profile CEOs. BY JENNIFER REINGOLD

COVER: COURTESY OF APPLE (IPHONE); CLOCKWISE FROM TOP: RON SACHS—GETTY; DAVID TELLEN; BENJAMIN LOWY—VII; SCOTT LAJMAN

FORTUNE

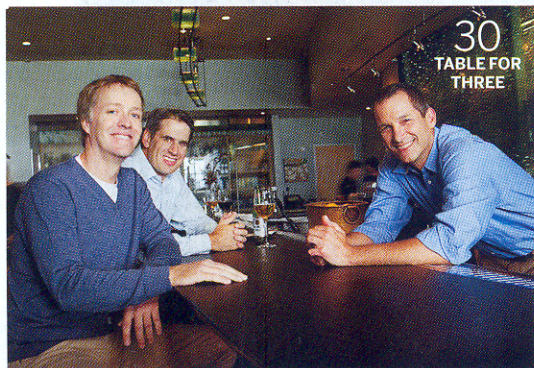

Volume 160, Number 3

→
28
DRIVER'S SEAT

20
INTERNATIONAL ADVENTURE
←

18
CLASS
CONSCIOUS
↓

30
TABLE FOR THREE

25
START FROM SCRATCH

FIRST

18 Dress Code

As kids head back to school, more of them will be trading in their Abercrombie and Polo gear for the skirts, ties, and sweaters of traditional uniforms.

BY SUZANNE KAPNER

20 Fast, Foreign Food

Some exotic new menus are coming to America.

BY TELIS DEMOS

28 Fortune Decoder

Out of "Chapter 33": Donald Trump plans to buy a bankrupt casino chain, and he vows to make it thrive again.

BY MINA KIMES

24 Value Driven

Three big health-care myths. BY GEOFF COLVIN

25 The Best Advice I Ever Got

Mattel CEO Bob Eckert. INTERVIEW BY ALYSSA ABKOWITZ

26 Do Railroads Have a Free Ride?

A new bill could tighten regulation—and send investors running. BY JIA LYNN YANG

28 Road Warrior

Filmmaker Ken Burns would rather drive. BY DIANE TEGMEYER

29 How I Got Started

LinkedIn founder Reid Hoffman talks about his path from academia to social media.

INTERVIEW BY ALYSSA ABKOWITZ

TECHNOLOGY

30 The Hottest Table in Town

OpenTable, the online reservation service, is one of the few venture-backed companies to go public this year. Its secret ingredient? Technology restaurateurs actually like. BY MAHA ATAL

7 LETTERS

84 BING!

BRAINSTORM: TECH 2009

32 Innovation for Fun and Profit

At Fortune's annual technology summit, industry executives pledge to lead the way out of the recession.

32 Business Wants to Go Social

Companies crave corporate versions of Twitter and Facebook, not just as tools for reaching customers but for internal collaboration.

32 Networked Cities

Can the Internet transform cities the way it changed corporations?

33 Content King

Disney's Bob Iger thinks consumers will pay more for quality—even online.

33 The Multitasking Tech Exec

At Hollywood studio DreamWorks Animation, the chief technology officer has to play well with others.